
Investment for Health: Integrating Health in All Policies

(Sunday, 09 March 2008) - - Last Updated (Friday, 18 January 2008)

Venice, Italy March 9-14, 2008

The University of Padova Medical School is organizing a training Course on "Investment for Health: Integrating Health in All Policies" in collaboration with the WHO European Office for Investment for Health and Development, Venice (Italy), the Yale/WHO Collaborating Centre (US), Bradford University (UK), the Medical University of Graz (Austria) and the Veneto Region (Italy).

This is an intensive one-week residential course.- to be held in Venice from March 9-14, 2008, focusing on the emerging field of investment for health and emphasizing that many key health issues, including health inequities, cannot be solved by traditional approaches in medicine and public health. The Course is intended for professionals already working in public health and relevant public policy sectors. The number of participants is limited (20 places) but there are still vacancies.

For further information, please visit <http://www.sabiwork.it/internationalconferences.php> or contact Ms. Benedetta Bixio b.bixio@unipd.it (University of Padua Medical School).

[Source: SDOH, <https://listserv.yorku.ca/archives/sdoh.html>]